

Data management & the role of libraries in the evolving research lifecycle

- What level of engagement does your organization have with research data management? Is that level appropriate?
- Do your staff have the skills needed to manage research data? What reskilling efforts are required?
- How will your data management efforts intertwine with other priorities for your organization?

Fake news arbitration: the role of the library

Is “fake news” any concern of libraries?

Should libraries collect and provide access to “fake news”?

What tools (if any) should libraries offer users to identify “fake news”?

1. You have been asked to create an information literacy program for academic staff across your university. What would you do? How would you know that you have been successful?
2. The universities across your region/country are engaging a consultant to design an information literacy program that every institution must use. What would it look like?
3. Do you think your information literacy program(s) are important and why?
